Full Review
I love playing frisbee with my friends. We all play at school when we are not in class, we play after school and we play on the weekends. My old frisbee was purchased at the local drugstore for about $3. It advertised that it was the "PRO DISC", it had the official 180gram weight, and it flew further and more steady than a normal frisbee. LIES!! It was horrible. It hurt my hands, cut my finger, couldn't be thrown more than 30 feet, wobbled in flight, and overall just was not a good frisbee. So, I went out and bought an Aerobie Superdisc after all my friends had started using them. My friends all got theirs from around $5-$12. I picked mine up at Toys 'R' Us for $9. I thought it was a bit pricey. When I got home and started playing with it, I WAS IMPRESSED. This

Superdisc is much lighter than the other frisbee I had used, yet it was perfectly balanced. A light flick of the wrist sent it flying 50 feet. It never wobbles. It has a soft rubber edge around it, so it is comfortable when catching. It is by far the best frisbee I have ever played with. It also looks a lot cooler than a normal frisbee.

If you like playing frisbee, BUY THIS SUPERDISC!!!!

p.s. It won an award from Popular Science for the Best New Recreational Toy.

Aerobie® Superdisc™ Ultra

At 12 inches and 162 grams, the Ultra offers the same stability and accuracy of the original Superdisc™ in a larger, heavier disc.

Return to Products Page

The Superdisc Ultra was introduced in response to the clamor of the many fans of the Superdisc for a larger, heavier version. The original Aerobie Superdisc with its patented spoiler rim design was introduced in 1995 and quickly became a favorite. People love its remarkably stable, accurate flights and soft rubber edge. The spoiler rim makes a disc very easy for people of all skill levels to throw well. The Superdisc Ultra has the same spoiler rim and soft rubber edge but it is 20% larger and 36% heavier. The Superdisc Ultra is designed for those that want the top of the line Aerobie flying disc.

The Superdisc Ultra has a soft rubber edge that has many benefits. It provides a great grip for strong throws, it is soft to catch, and it does not develop sharp scratches and burrs like a conventional disc when it hits pavement.

Like all Aerobie discs (and unlike Aerobie rings), the Superdisc Ultra floats. It is made in an assortment of colors (yellow, red, blue, and purple) and is recommended for kids 10 years old and up. The Aerobie Superdisc Ultra is quality made in the U.S.A.

L.E.D. FLYING DISC PLANS

Extend your game into the night !

Not a toy, this is a real, quality flying disc that performs !

Just as much fun to watch as it is to throw !

- Any Flying Disc Enthusiast knows that there is a huge difference between a professional, solidly made disc and some crappy toy disc that you see in many popular retail stores. But, so far the only discs made to throw at night are novelty toys, made by toy or novelty companies who could care less whether or not their products perform well. We've seen them all, and none of them have hit the mark, in fact, that's why we don't carry any of them on our web site, because we won't sell crap. The discs they start with are too light and flimsy, causing them to turn over far too easily. The battery casings and lighting systems are too heavy and the weight of those systems are poorly distributed on the disc, causing even more performance problems. And without fail, they mysteriously just stop working after two or three outings. These are the problems that we set out to overcome with this design. We think we've succeeded, and have spent many an enjoyable night experiencing a whole new kind of flying disc fun. It really is a cool looking sight, watching the L.E.D.s spin through the night sky, in fact, the darker the better.
- Our L.E.D. Flying Disc Plans show you step by step how to easily modify your favorite disc for use when the sun goes down. (We suggest a 175g Discraft Glow UltraStar) What you'll end up with is a well-balanced, durable, easy to see, long lasting flying disc that performs just like your favorite disc (because it IS your favorite disc). What could be better than that? If you'd like to purchase a 175g Discraft Glow UltraStar to go with your Plans, just order our L.E.D. Flying Disc Plans Combo and save Two Bucks !! Click Here
- L.E.D.'s take very little current to keep them lit which makes them very efficient. Inexpensive to operate?? We mean it. In our tests, our disc stayed lit for over 100 HOURS! That's over four days straight. That works out to just about a nickel for each hour of night time play, and if you play with your disc, even every other night for 30 minutes at a time, you won't have to replace the batteries for over a year!!
- And the added bonus is that you built it yourself, so you know what makes it tick. So in case the disc gets waffled,

GUTS

Their are rumors that Guts is becoming popular in many areas. Many have never seen or played Guts, but we assure you it does exist. Imagine two groups of five people standing 16 yards apart, then throwing a disc as hard as possible at the other group. A point is scored when the other group has a chance to catch the disc, but it still hits the ground. If the throw is horrible, and there is no chance to catch it, a point is given to the receiving team..

Flying Disc Hunter

What is Disc Golf?

(quoted from PDGA.com)

The growing popularity of the game of disc golf begins with the essential fact that throwing a flying disc with power and accuracy is a marvelous sensation. The constant challenge, the social nature of the game, the good physical and mental conditioning, and the fact that it is inexpensive to play are also attractions. Disc golf is a recreational sport for everybody, regardless of age, gender, or ability.

The object of the game is to traverse a course from beginning to end in the fewest number of throws of the disc. Each consecutive throw is made from where the disc came to rest after the last throw. Score is determined by counting the number of throws made on each hole plus penalty throws and then summing all holes. The winner is the player who completes the course with the lowest score.

The course consists of a series of holes laid out so that when the player completes one hole he or she proceeds to the beginning of the next until all the holes have been played. The player is provided with a teeing area from which to begin each hole and a target to complete the hole. Disc golf courses are normally laid out among wooded areas with diverse terrain to provide natural obstacles to the flight of the disc. These natural obstacles are very much a part of the game and must not be altered by the players in any way to decrease the difficulty of a hole. Disc golf courses are normally 18 holes in length, but there are also 9-hole, 24-hole and 27-hole courses in existence. Disc golf courses can be found in each of the 50 United States and in Canada, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Netherlands, Switzerland, Germany, Finland, Hungary, United Kingdom, Peru, and Africa.

Disc golf is a game that expects high standards of etiquette and courtesy. Among the basic considerations of etiquette are such things as concern for spectators and other players and I'm proud to say that this post is NOT mime encoded, to avoid annoying the Usenet community.

Maybe I wasn't too clear. I'm not sure if the Aerobie disc meets the specs for PDGA disc golf. I am sure that the Aerobie ring is not legal. Two different flying devices. The ring is clearly illegal. I agree that the Aerobie disc would probably not be a very good golf disc, but it may be legal. If the Aerobie ring were legal, it might have its uses in Disc Golf. It is harder to control, but it goes a lot farther than an X-Clone. Maybe I could even reach the green on that 800 ft hole at Miantonomi. Nah, I'd probably still end up OB, hitting my car.

The name "Disc Golf" is the name used for the PDGA sport. The name "Disc Golf" is not a rule, and does not imply any rule. It's a good, convenient name. So is "Pole Hole", but that doesn't mean a Pole Hole must be a hole. It's a basket with chains.

The Aerobie disc would appear to meet the diameter and weight requirements. I'm not too sure about the leading edge radius and the rim configuration, and I don't have the proper equipment to measure my Aerobie Superdisc.

And I have played (one hole) of disc golf with a trash can lid. It's really hard to get a putt to stay in. Must be nearly impossible with a Mach Fore basket.
